KIMBERLEY LLOYD

Kimberley Lloyd is a highly qualified and experienced music educator with a diverse background in teaching across different countries and educational levels.

Along with her Bachelor of Education in Music, Kimberley also has her Master of Music in Music Education with Kodály Emphasis from Holy Names University, California. Kimberley's dedication to the Kodály method is highlighted by her accreditation as a lecturer for the Australian Kodály Certificate.

After the birth of her daughter Freya in 2021, Kimberley established her own music school, Little House of Music. This venture reflects her passion for providing music education to a wide range of students, from babies to adults. The inclusion of Professional Development opportunities for music teachers also demonstrates her commitment to enhancing the skills and knowledge of her fellow educators. Kimberley can also be found lecturing at Edith Cowan University across several Education Units.
