KODÁLY CONNECT WITH HILARY PRICE

inguished for her proficiency in Music Education and Choral instruction, Hilary Price-Keegan pursued her studies at Trinity College Dublin in Ireland, the Kodály Institute of the Liszt Ferenc Academy of Music in Hungary and earned the highest honors in her Master of Music Education from Holy Names University in California. With this diverse educational background, Hilary brings a global perspective and a deep understanding of music education methodologies to her teaching and professional endeavours. In 2021, Hilary welcomed her daughter, Shannon Elodie, and took maternity leave from PLC Perth where she was Head of Choral, Acting Head of Department and has educated students from Pre-Kindy to Year 12 since 2013. During her early days with Shannon, Hilary realised her passion for music education could have a wider reach, and in 2021 founded, founded 'School of Musical Heartbeats, offering Group Music classes for newborns, toddlers, children, adult musicianship classes, school incursions, choral workshops and masterclasses, as well as professional development courses for educators. Hilary's dedication to spreading musical joy extends beyond her own ventures. As a part-time lecturer at Edith Cowen University, she imparts her musical knowledge and experience to aspiring educators, preparing them for successful careers in the field. Furthermore, she directs the Irish Choir Perth, a community ensemble that celebrates the rich heritage and beauty of Irish music, and also directs several Choir's at St. Mary's Anglican School, Perth.
